As far as I know, there are no connections between this @gmail.com address and ATK. I mean, there's always the possibility that, for example, this email address auto-forwards to your ATK account, but I doubt it. Gmail.com in Safari/Chrome lets you switch between the two accounts rapidly, but they're not actually connected. The Mail app on your Mac lets you see both accounts, but they're totally separate unless you drag an email from one account to the other.
